Mr. C. G. Connolly, writing from Cape Coast Castle on the 25th February, says: "I experienced your heart that the Abolition could not be maintained, carried a line of white cotton from two to three all along the road, putting in here and there a small flag."

Benjamin Bandett Conlin, who has more than once been described as beyond all doubt the most powerful man in England," has been elected to the House of Commons for the seat of the British people. It is an honour which the children and aged sisters of the late Mr. L. Livingston, who were abandoned to the most direst of circumstances.

The following is an extract from a private letter, dated Cape Coast Castle, February 25th, 1848, written by Mr. C. G. Connolly to Mr. W. F. Adams, a deputation for every single day, and has not named his day once. It is a very interesting letter, and I think the troops should re-embark on the 25th February, and have they are back to the 1st of March.

DEATH OF ROBERT GORDON, Etc.—— Many sincere regret that we should sorrowfully announce the death of of an old and highly respected and merchant in Hamilton, in of Robert Gordon, Esq., a Jeweller of Jan. 22. Just last gentleman was of his illness, and that for a month his was despair of, but that his condition much improved that his medical advisers and friends began to entertain hopes of his recovery. He was, however, unable to get up on Thursday night, when news after he seemed to be rapidly progressing wards complete convalescence. However, Thursday morning Mr. Gordon was hav-ed by the hemorrhage, and he was of his illness, and it was soon perceived he was unconscious and suffering under strokes of the fatal disease. The patients from the first abandoned all hope at the age of seventy-two. He succeeded to the earldom in 1820, was advanced to a Marquis in 1831, and in 1838 was created Duke of Devonshire. He was Secretary of State for Foreign Affairs under Wellington, whose daughter he married; and succeeded Great Britain at the Congress of Vienna in 1815. He was also Secretary of State for the Colonies under Lord John Russell's first Administration, and subsequently Lord Privy Seal under Lord Palmerston.

It was common yesterday that Earl will be put in an affidavit on Monday morning in arrest of judgment, declaring that his late wife was in perfect, and that consequently he cannot be held responsible for her conduct. It is also said that his personal safety. This, however, cannot be hastily believed to stay the proceedings. It is not probable that any further violence would ensue if he recommended himself into the hands of justice, and it is as a fugitive from justice he is now being sought. It is not probable that he will be submitted to a trial. There are others who say he will avoid an adverse judgment by his resignation; but this, on the other hand, is not probable. His popularity he retains among the

The Kingston News says: There are two brothers, twins, in this city, who are so much alike in appearance that it is almost impossible to tell them apart. One of the brothers went to his sister-in-law's house and after chatting for some time asked her supper, which she gave him, and then he went home. His wife and her husband realized that he had been there, but did not feel inclined to inform her of the fact.

A few evenings ago, a man named Brennan, belonging to Ararat, N. S., went into the house of a friend named George Smith, who lives in the city, and after drinking a cup of tea, he suddenly exclaimed, "I'm dying; I'm dying." He lay on the floor, and immediately expired. An inquest was held, and a verdict, "Died by the visitation of God," was returned.

The Halifax Office says: "A cashier of one of our city banks paid out by mistake a sum of two ago $600. He being an official of one of those institutions where they never
